

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Bridging the Gap: Integrating Theory and Practice in the Economic and Social Sciences

Cambridge ESRC-DTC Student Conference Programme

Wednesday 15th April 2015 ♦ Institute of Criminology, Sidgwick Site

9.00am - Arrival and Registration

9.15am - Welcome and Introduction

9.20am - Panel Session

Thérèse Rudebeck, Natasha Watts, and Jonathan Harris (Geography)

Translating research into policy; at what scale?

10.20am - Directed Feedback Session

Corinna Frey (Management Studies, Judge Business School): Bridging the gap between research and practice in international development

11.05am - Break

11.20am - Panel Session

Frederico Lima (Economics): Fiscal Stimulus and Consumption across US Counties

Victor Roy (Sociology): Where do prices come from in the case of new, innovative pharmaceuticals?

Richard Jones (History): The Second Reform Act, Median Voter Theory, and Chamberlain's Gas and Water Socialism in the 1870s

12.20pm - Keynote Speech: Collaborations, Careers and Creativity

The keynote speech will be delivered by Jeff Patmore, an advisor, mentor and innovator, specialising in information and communications technology.

1.10pm - Lunch

1.55pm - Panel Session

Lucy Markson (Criminology/Psychology): The impact of cumulative risk on prisoners' children's behavioural outcomes: The potential moderating role of within-family protective factors

Sarah Foley (Centre for Family Research, Psychology): Does maternal mind-mindedness buffer pre-teenage children at risk for disruptive behaviour?

2.40pm - Directed Feedback Session

Rob Neal (Education): Intelligibility of Anglophone young beginner learners of Mandarin Chinese

3.25pm – Break

3.40pm - Panel Session

Pascale Reinke (Criminology): Police investigative interviews with victims of human trafficking: Theory and practice

Samantha Andrews (Psychology): Child victims in Scottish courts

Samuel Strong (Geography): Foodbanks in theory, theories on foodbanks

4.40pm - Panel Session

Omari Norman (Judge Business School): Work Your Way Up: Power, Knowledge, Subjectivity, Discourses of Identity and Interns in the Workplace

Laura Panades-Estruch (Law): European Law at the European Parliament: Incorporating work experience into the PhD

5.25pm - Concluding Comments

5.30pm - Drinks Reception

Keynote Speaker: Jeff Patmore

I am an advisor, mentor and innovator specialising in information and communications technology (ICT). During my 30+ years of management in industry I was responsible for many of the key developments in on-line communication, the Internet and Broadband, working in both the United Kingdom and the Massachusetts and San Francisco Bay Areas of the United States. With amazing people I have been able to radically improve how people on our planet communicate, collaborate and innovate. I hold Industrial Fellowships in the Engineering Design Centre and the Electric Carbon Nanomaterials Group at the University of Cambridge and I am a member of Pembroke College Cambridge.

